

100 Milwaukeeans you need to know, Part Two

Published June 13, 2006

In a city of a half million or so people, there are hundreds of movers and shakers who make Milwaukee tick. Some are politicians, philanthropists or executives. Others are musicians, artist or activists. Whatever they put on their business cards each contributes to Milwaukee in their own special way -- and you'll be better off adding them to your list of acquaintances.

Last week, we introduced you to 100 Milwaukee you need to know. Here are 100 more, listed in alphabetical order.

Norman Adami, President and CEO, Miller Brewing Company
Art Altenburg, owner of Art Altenburg's Concertina Bar
Dean Amhaus, president, Spirit of Milwaukee
Vanessa Andrew, co-founder of Fasten Clothing Co-op
John Barnes, senior director of Ticket Service, Milwaukee Brewers
Renee Bebeau, henna artist; cheese sculptor; performance artist; hair stylist
Clayborn Benson III, curator, the Black Historical Society
Robert Ruvin, developer
Todd Broadie, formerly Narada Records' marketing director, now at WMYS
Mark Bucher, founder and artistic director of Boulevard Theater
Dean Cannestra, restaurateur, Nessun Dorma, Libiamo, Palermo Villa
Ferne Caulker, artistic director of Milwaukee's Ko-Thi Dance Company
Tina Chang, CEO of SysLogic Inc.
David Clarke, Milwaukee County sheriff
Pedro Colon, State Representative
Tom Crean, Marquette men's basketball coach
Mike D'Amato, alderman
Sandy D'Amato, owner of Sanford, Coquette and more
John Daniels, managing partner, Quarles & Brady
Joe Dannecker, MPS board president
Theri DeJoode and Erica Grabczyk, groom
Dustin Diamond, "Screech" on "Saved By The Bell"
Tracy Doyle, director, co-founder of Insurgent Theatre
Tyrone Dumas, longtime community activist and a current MPS official
Allen Eisenberg, attorney
Jason Fields, State Representative
Cecilia Gilbert, Department of Public Works
Fred Gillich, founder of Too Much Rock/Smac Design
Brent Gohde, Promotions Director at WMSE

Randy Gschwind, chief information officer, City of Milwaukee
Bob Heger, VP-Operations, YMCA
Willie Hines, president of the Milwaukee Common Council
Christine Hodgson, Hyatt Regency concierge
Mike Hoffmann, musician and producer
Corey Hoze, administrator, Economic Support -- Milwaukee County
Josh Kaiser, Aaron Kapp and Ben Harrison, founders of Rishi Tea
Phillip Katz, architect
Rich Kirchen, DJ and managing editor of The Business Journal
Tim Kitzke, Three Holy Women pastor
Herb Kohl, Bucks owner and U.S. senator
Ken Koppa, second-generation owner of the funky Koppa's Farwell Foods, home of the Fulbeli Deli
Tim Kretschmann, host of Stimmung Stunde German radio show on WJYI (1340 AM)
Jon Jackson, program director, Milwaukee International Film Festival
Peter Jest, club owner
Arlis Jones, owner of The Lex Jazz Club
Bev Jurkowski from We Energies
Mike Lafferty, president of the Wave
Pascal Malassigne, professor of Industrial Design at MIAD
Bob Mariano, CEO Roundy's
Sandy Maxx, DJ and Brewers' Game Day host
Pat McCurdy, local musical funny man
Marilyn Mee, DJ
Mary Meehan, Alverno College
Rich Menninger, owner of Atomic Records
Leslie Montemurro, restaurateur (Fuel, Comet, Hi-Hat, Hi-Hat Garage, Trocadero, Palomino)
Cindy Moran, Audience Development Manager, Milwaukee Repertory Theater
Jill Morin, 3EO, Kahler Slater Architects
H. Carl Mueller, public relations veteran
John Nehring, owner of V. Richard's, Groppi's, Sendik's on Oakland, Tres Bon Catering, Jean Pierre on Oakland and Oakland Wine Bar & Tapas
Corey Nettles, partner, Quarles & Brady law firm
Beth Nicols, executive director, Milwaukee Downtown
Old Man Malcolm, DJ.
Betty Ewens Quadracci, queen of Quad Graphics
Frank Pecoraro, pepperoni cannoli pitchman
Mike Pepke, attorney
Glen Ponczak, director, Financial Communication, Johnson Controls
Randy Prasse, State Fair CEO
Joe Puerta, of Ambrosia and formerly Bruce Hornsby and the Range
Ragani, founder of Milwaukee Kirtan and musician
Erik Resch, owner of Stone Creek Coffee
Kristian Riley, of the band New Sense and Bionic Studios

Robert Rindler, new president of MIAD
Al Rolandi of Wislalia's executive administrator
Brent Ruppel, Jr., VP at R.W. Baird
Mark Sabljak, publisher of the Business Journal
Trevor Sadler, CD mastering engineer
Dr. Sam Scheibler, MSOE faculty member, theologian and minister, German-American culturist (Goethe House), multi-lingual renaissance man
Mike Schmidt, owner of Bella's Fat Cat
Bill Schroeder, Brewers TV color analyst and master griller
Anne E. Schwartz, police department spokeswoman
John Shiely, Briggs and Stratton CEO
David Silbaugh, Summerfest drum tech, booking aide and general man about the grounds
Joe Sims, Milwaukee Striders track club coach
Bill Stace, Miramar Theater and Walls Have Ears studio
Gary Tanin, musician, producer, mastering engineer
Pegi Taylor, art model, performance artist, writer, donating skeleton to MIAD after death
Jason Todd, musician, emcee, Def Harmonic
Pauls Toutonghi, author of the new novel "Red Weather," set in Milwaukee
Shary Tran, Equal employment and diversity specialist with Johnson Controls
Ben Turk, playwright, co-founder of Insurgent Theatre
Deb Tzortzos, district manager for Landmark Theaters
Eric Uecke, owner of the Cactus Club
Bob Uecker, Hall of Fame Brewers radio broadcaster
David Uihlein, architect
Johnny Vassallo, restaurateur, Mo's empire
Dr. Hermann Viets, president of Milwaukee School of Engineering
Davey Von Bohlen, musician, Maritime and formerly of The Promise Ring
Scott Walker, Milwaukee County Executive
Ed Ward, Irish Fest founder
Gary Witt, executive director/booking man at The Pabst Theater